

The most known person who got crucified was Jesus

Crucifixion was mostly done to slaves, Christians and soldiers

The most shameful way of death in history

Most times the executor would break the legs of the people who were getting crucified so that the death process would speed up and so that they couldn't use their thigh muscles as support

Romans used crucifixion as punishment because it was a very painful and humiliating death

A few minutes after Jesus got hanged his shoulders dislocated

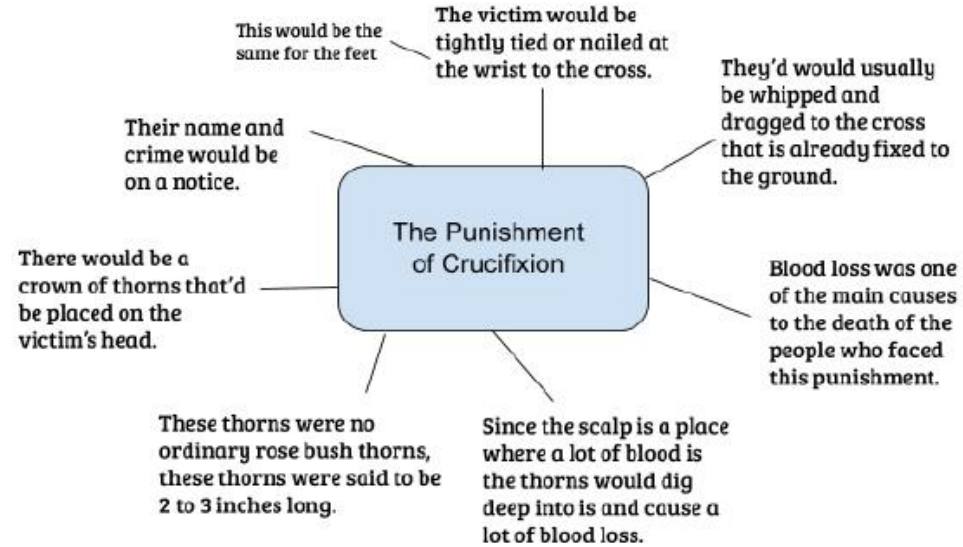

When you get crucified you are tied or nailed to a big wooden beam and you are left there until you slowly die from exhaustion

On a cross you could not last more than 24 hours the most.

The Punishment of Crucifixion

Crucifixion was a method of punishment in which the victim was either nailed or tied to a large wooden beam in the shape of a cross, they would be left there till eventual death. This was a method of punishment that was mainly used by the Romans.

was meant to impose maximum amount of shame and torture upon the victim and daunt those from crossing the roman government.

Was a capital punishment aka. Death penalty which was extremely painful.

When the victim arrived at the place of crucifixion, he would be stripped naked to further shame.

Involved the nailing or tying of the hands and feet to a wooden beam and being left to hang there until death by exhaustion or asphyxiation.

Crucifixion

was outlawed by the Roman Emperor Constantine in the fourth century ce

It was used to punish slaves, pirates, and enemies of the state both men and women

Started in 6th century bce was invented and used by other groups of people, but it was "perfected" by the Romans as the ultimate execution by torture.
