

Welcome Page-

This page always automatically appears on all of the touchscreen devices/interfaces all over Neoteric Stadium (even if they aren't currently in use). This is to welcome the users so they are comfortable. An image of the football stadium is the background of the page to draw the users attention and to look appealing (follows the colour scheme of the interface). The 'press to start' button is there to guide the users/public into using the interface and starting it. The button is three dimensional (3D) to look like a physical, pressable button, so users know they can press it. It contrasts from the rest of the page (grey against blue) so it can stand out, as it is the main button of the page. The logo is in the corner of the page and will stay there consistently throughout the whole interface.

Wire frame design for the welcome page-

The initial wire frame design for the welcome page is very different from the final design of it. I have removed the 'text', which is now replaced with the word 'Welcome'. Instead of the image being in a certain place, it is the background of the whole page. The accessibility features and 'Help' button is no longer available on the welcome page, users have to 'press to start' to get to them. The start button is now in the middle of the page and is grey. One similarity is that the logo stayed in the exact same place.
