- my list of words I decided to use about me

- My paragraph composed of the things I used in my list with peer feedback from my partner

- My second draft with peer critique from myself

Hi! My name is Akera Aya Williams. I was born on February 20th (which makes my most favorite colour in the world - one pink, blue, purple and yellow like one colour of an umbrella that I also love! I kind of remember going to a school called Springfield lower - but that was a long long time ago. A few years ago, I went to great Jackson primary school where I met most of my friends. I still remember today but I will get onto that later. My family comes from Kenya (Uganda) but we moved to the UK. I have 3 sisters: Cathi Akira Nantaka (13), Aphi Miritaka (9) and Vanessa Nantaka (21). Moving on, I have 10 medals... 5... OK I have my own 2 for football and £20 for a painting I have done which I am very proud of. My favourite subjects are: Art, music, dance and I love later photography. My favourite foods are pasta & the one that looks like a large straw and cake (vanilla sponge, obviously!). My all time favourite band in the history of time is 15 point at the black (p.i.a.c.) because I could love... I guess everything! My favourite movie has to be the greatest showman. I love playing football () with all my friends from Great Jackson (Abigail, Liam, Hannah, and Tahira) and Miss () in my free time. My Zodiac sign is pisces which means I am selfless/heart of people emotions. Which I don't understand yet but I am sure I will find out later.

- For my initial fingerprint design I decided to do a Starbucks drink
- I decided to change the design and colours of the drink in the first and second picture because it didn't fit the background I was going to use based on the colour contrast
- I decided to add a shadow for more depth in the second photo
- I decided that I wanted to make the cup smaller and the straw bigger to make it realistic.

Chapter 4		What surprised you? The author goes through the same things that we do and has the courage to share it and that they had the Syed brothers written on the side of their car What inspired you? You don't need to copy everything the person you look up to does from the clothes they wear to the car they have, don't be a clone, be yourself everyone is already taken. What challenged you? What made me think was when the author talked about not copying all the things your idol does and that got me to think do I do that?
Chapters 1 2 3		- What challenged you? What challenged me was trying to understand what they meant when they talked about 'the plan' - What surprised you? What surprised me was that kid doubt can do so much to people like make them throw away the thing that you love so much. - What will you change? I will change my attitude towards myself and my self esteem - How will you use what you have read to shape the work you create in class I would use things that I like and not what anyone else tells me to do
Chapter 4-5		Many things have changed and adapted through history, like phones. We didn't always have them until 1876. Even theories like how we thought the sun revolved around the earth. Matthew talked about his first job where he wanted to be a writer but instead he joined an office job. Instead of following his dream he followed what people thought was good for him and forgot 'THE PLAN'. He then quit his job and never looked back.

Chapter 6-7		In these chapters, Matthew Syed talked about how to take action with your problems and be our own action heroes with 3 steps: 1) Ask the question 'could anything be done about it' 2) Think of a solution 3) Act on it, by yourself with help, with a positive mind-set. He even talked about people who acted like their own action hero as well. In chapter 7, he said kid doubt could be stopping us from being kind. But if we were all let in on the secret that if we were more authentic and dared to be ourselves then we could be more resilient, take that step to being kinder than we could wipe that smirk right off kid doubts face :) The author also said that we have to be kind to ourselves by finding our sleep schedule, exercising, being calm, talking to friends and family about our problems, because kindness pays, and taking time off our screens.

My fourth draft with my critiques and suggestions to add to final piece

- I decided to change the colours from my first choice to a different colour variation to similarise to the background
In terms for the next step:
- I decided to add small stars and circle decorations to the top of the drink for embellishments
- I wanted to make the writing the same as the drinks colours
- I wanted to make the writing more in the shape of a fingerprint than it already was
- I wanted to make the design bigger to make it more noticeable to what the image was

My plan for my final draft is to follow all of these critiques and add shadows and more things along the way.

Final draft for fingerprint art

I decided to outline parts of the cup that I wanted to stand out and for the cream on the top of the Starbucks drink I used a different blend of coloured pencils to highlight important information about me and I made it look like caramel.

Background for the fingerprint art (collage of brown wrapping paper, newspaper, crumpled up plain paper and Starbucks logos)

What went well (in the whole process)	The things that went well were when I was able to finally find the style of the drink I wanted to use because I was debating on which drink and colours I should use I, how many things I knew about myself, friends, family and myself and how the Final piece turned out.
Even Better If (if you were to do it again)	If I could do this again I would change the size of the drink so I could add more writing because I wanted to add more things about myself inside, if I had added a shadow because it would have made It look more realistic like a photograph and to include more of my peers critique into the final paragraph for my fingerprint.
What skills I have developed? (in the whole process)	In this whole process, I have developed the skills to expand on my writing when doing my paragraph about myself, and cut down on the less important things, redraft my work, from a bigger cup to a smaller one, to critique mine and others work. And to be able to read a book and incorporate it into my work.
What have you enjoyed?	I have enjoyed being able to express my thoughts, ideas and share so many things about me (things I like and dislike etc.) all in one cup, even though it was nothing like my first draft. But overall I thought the whole process was really enjoyable and especially fun and I think I created a piece of work I am proud of.

Self Assessment

Please indicate which threshold you feel you have achieved

Mastered	A planned fingerprint that shows the process of drafting and redrafting to create a final piece which is of high quality. It must include correct spelling, varied wording, use of synonyms and use of colour or shading. There is very clear development of ideas. You show a very creative response to the task using many different stimuli.
Secure	A planned fingerprint that shows the process of drafting and redrafting to create a final piece which is of good quality. It must include correct spelling, varied wording, some use of synonyms and use of colour or shading. There is clear development of ideas. You have shown a creative response to the idea.
Developing	A planned fingerprint that shows the process of drafting and redrafting to create a final piece which is of reasonable quality. It must include correct spelling, varied wording and use of colour or shading. There is some development of ideas. You have shown a basic response to the idea.
Emerging	A planned fingerprint that shows the process of drafting and redrafting to create a final piece which is of reasonable quality. It must include correct spelling, varied wording and use of colour or shading. The work may be incomplete and/or inconsistent.
